Participants needed in a Nursing Dissertation Research Study

- African American women who experience intimate partner violence often do not seek help from hospitals and when they seek help from police, they do not always have safe interactions.
- I am interviewing African American/Black woman who are 18 years or older living in the Midwest and have experienced intimate partner violence at some point in their lifetime. I am not currently interviewing women who are currently in abusive relationships nor in the process of leaving an abusive relationship.
- I would like to hear about the experiences you and women in your family have had with hospitals and police after experiencing intimate partner violence.
- Your voice is crucial to improving the education and practice of professionals who care for survivors.
- To thank you for your time, you could receive up to $50 in compensation.
